Stay Safe During Thunderstorms

Spring is here, and with it will undoubtedly come another wave of thunderstorms. Remember – a lightning bolt can carry billions of watts of electricity. If a strike occurs near your home, it can send a powerful surge that could damage your electronics and potentially injure you.

To help stay safe and protect your electronic investments, be sure to unplug your computers, televisions, modems, DVRs, cable outlets, and telephones before bad weather hits, so you're not in contact with these items during the storm. In addition, avoid contact with metallic items and plumbing, including faucets and bathtubs, until the storm is over.

For more tips on staying safe this season, and throughout the year, visit the Electrical Safety Foundation International website at www.esfi.org.
